1. When should you use context API?

Ans: When a large number of components at various nesting levels require acce is usually used. using context api you can share any data among components wi level of the component tree.

2. What is a custom hook ?

Ans: it is React JavaScript function that starts with the prefix "use" and follows t reuse stateful logic and distribute it among different parts without having to wr

3. What is useRef ?

Ans: it is a built-in React hook . it accepts only one argument as the initial value

4. What is useMemo ?

Ans: To memoize a function's output, React provides the useMemo hook. In ord expensive computations so that they are only recalculated when absolutely nece